WILL BE REINSPECTED

YORK STEAMBOATS. It is Declared That the Public Welfare is Paramount and That the Order Must Be Obeyed.

ANOTHER EXAMINATION OF NEW

The last important act of the administra tion of Secretary Cortelyou of the Department of Commerce and Labor was to issue an order for the reinspection of every steamboat in the harbor of New York. This action was taken because of the horrible accident to the General Slocum, by which a thousand human lives were lost by fire and drowning, and the Department of Commerce and Labor has taken up the matter of investigation, with the intention of ascertaining just who was responsible for the alleged dereliction of duty, and of punishing the guilty parties.

The reinspection begins tomorrow, and will be more thorough than any that have preceded it, if that be possible. Not a loophole will be left for the companies operating steamboats in the harbor to escape the watchful eyes of the government in-spectors, and it is safe to assume that these officials, with the Slocum disaster fresh in their minds, will overlook nothing in their work. George Uhler, inspector general of the steamboat inspection service, attached to the Department of Commerce and Labor. will have personal supervision of this rein-spection, and his reputation for care in his profession guarantees complete work. The department means the order to be obeyed to the fullest degree, and there will be little regard for the man who should chance to overlook his duty.

There has been some question among the New York inspectors regarding the right, within the law, of the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor to order a reinspection, some of the inspectors having been quoted as saying that such inspection could not be ordered save by the board of supervising inspectors. Answer has been made to this by former Secretary Cortelyou that the public need was paramount to the existing law, which was never intended to blockade efficient work, and that the or-der would have to be obeyed or there would have to be an accounting to the depart ment by the man who refused to comply and do his duty as ordered by the Secretary.

GEORGETOWN AFFAIRS

Corner Stone Laying at Sisters of Providence Building.

The laying of the corner stone for the building being constructed by the Sisters of Providence in Tenleytown took place this morning at 10:30 o'clock. The ceremonies attending were simple and the usual formal exercises were eliminated. The Sisters of Providence of Terre Haute recently purchased this property from St. Ann's rectory. When the building is completed it will be used exclusively for educational purposes. The course of study will be in the nature of that pursued in the schools of the Sisters of Providence at Terre Haute. A post-graduate course is also to be added. The building, which, it is stated, will not be finished before October, will cost about $75,000.

An enjoyable straw ride was given last evening among Georgetown's younger so-The ride was arranged by Mr. Don ciety. The ride was arranged by Mr. Don-ald P. Miller, who was extended a vote of thanks for the great success which attended the affair.

A fight between two colored men was re sponsible for rather an exetting moment near the corner of M and 33d streets northwest about noon today. Froze Turner and Frank Harris were the alleged cause of the disturbance. Turner had held a long grievance against Harris, it is said, and when they came together this morning at the and proceeded to do so without the regulation gloves. The men fought for some time and Turner seemed to stand the punish ment pretty well, so Harris, it is flashed a razor. Turner was so badly cut it was necessary to take him to George-town University Hospital to have his wounds sewed up. After this was done both men were taken to the seventh precinct station and locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct. Miss Mockabee is reported to be improv

ASSIGNMENTS BY ASSESSOR.

Changes in Personnel of Board of Assistant Assessors.

District Assessor Hopewell H. Darneille has made his assignments of work for the members of the board of assistant assessors necessitated by reason of changes in the personnel of the board. Messrs. E. W. W. Griffin, Matthew Trimble and Samuel T. Kalbfus will constitute the permanent board of assessors and the excise board, and Alexander McKenzie and Francis Nye will constitute the personal tax appraisers. The assignments become effective July 5.

In announcing these assignments Mr. Darneille makes the following comment relative to the work of Mr. McKenzie and Mr. Kalbfus:

"I cannot make these assignments with out expressing my admiration of the splendid qualities displayed by Mr. McKenzie under his temporary assignment on the board of assistant assessors of real estate and the excise board. His work on both boards was performed to my entire satisfac-tion and with great credit to himself.

"Mr. Kalbfus has had eighteen years' ex-perience on the assessment books of real estate, the greater part of which was spent on county property, which is now under-going a careful revision. While he should be, and is, an expert on real estate values, he has had absolutely no experience in per-sonal tax matters, and his eighteen years' work would go for naught as a member of the board of personal tax appraisers.

"Mr. McKenzie, however, has made a study of personal tax laws, and has read all the leading text books on taxation, to-gether with the important decisions by the Supreme Court and the superior courts of the great commonwealths. He has investigated and studied the personal tax systems of the various large municipalities. He is an excellent judge of the values of paintings, engravings, tapestries and oriental rugs, an expert accountant, and is familiar with the values of machinery, merchants stock and personal property of all kinds. Personal tax laws are always more or less obnoxious to taxpayers, and many difficulties have arisen and been surmounted in putting the present law into execution. "I feel, therefore, that a permanent transfer of Mr. McKenzie from the board of personal tax appraisers so soon after the en-actment of the law, and at a time when several changes or amendments thereto are about to be put into operation, would not be in the best interests of good administra-tion."

EXPECTED THIS AFTERNOON. Superintendent of Reform School to Take Charge.

AMERICAN SHOES IN FRANCE. Aspersions Cast Upon Them by the Shopkeepers.

Discrimination against manufactures of the United States is alleged by Consular Agent King at Lille, France, in a report to the State Department. "It is not praiseworthy or flattering to American articles in general and to American-made shoes in particular," says Mr. King, "for a purchaser of the latter to notice in shoe stores cardboard signs drawing attention to a stock of footwear on hand and at the same time warning against purchase, owing to the impossibility of the seller to 'guarantee the American-made shoe.' On demanding the reasons for this the interested and eager buyer is informed that that class of articles are faulty and let in water, and that, moreover, in the case of reclamations the American firm will not reimburse the seller. A shoe imitating the American is then handed the customer for his consideration and purchase. It may be possible that such relations already exist between manufacturers and job-lot buyers, but at all events manufacturers selling goods in regular or job lots should insert clauses whereby foreign buyers would be forbidden to bill post their stores with indications depreciating the American-made shoe in particular and casting a certain degree of suspicion on American-made articles in general. "Too much care cannot be given to the proper exportation of all classes of goods if we desire to obtain the confidence of foreign buyers and hold their markets. Th Department of Commerce and Labor cannot insist too strongly upon this point. Any means devised by it for the proper exportation of American goods would cer-tainly have the approbation and the support of American firms seriously engaged in the exporting business and intent upon increasing foreign trade. "The grouping together of manufacturer into central organizations, authorized by trol the condition and guarantee the quali ty of goods to be exported by its members is a desideratum which, brought about by encouragement and the good will of ex-porters, would have excellent results. The complaints of the foreign buyer might thus be looked into and reason given for or be looked into and reason given for or against the seller. The foreign buyer would, moreover, have more confidence in exporters, would be better guaranteed. would take greater risks, and would buy more largely and freely; less difficulty would be experienced in soliciting and obtaining trade. Associations of this kind could be also supplemented by a staff of inspectors placed at foreign ports to guard against misrepresentations." against misrepresentations.
